LOCAL BUILDER EARNS NATIONAL DESIGNATION

January 2, 2015 – Kyle Gordon has been named to an elite group of home builders by earning the Certified Graduate Builder (CGB) designation, administered by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), identifying him as one of the industry's top professionals.

“I’m very proud to have earned this designation,” said Kyle, Owner/Operator at Kyle Gordon Builders. Kyle Gordon Builders is a residential construction company based in Danville, Pennsylvania. “Our primary focus is building elegant single-family homes that exceed our clients expectations. Creating the custom home of your dreams requires a tremendous amount of planning and energy, and this is where we can help. Founded in 2005, and with more than 10 years of experience backing us up, we strive for nothing less than excellent construction services to give you and your family the home that you deserve.”

To earn the CGB designation, builders must successfully complete a curriculum that incorporates training from leading building industry practitioners and experts on a range of topics, including business management, emerging technologies and market trends. After earning the CGB, program graduates are required to sign a code of ethics and maintain their designations by completing 12 hours of continuing education every three years.

“This CGB designation gives me the additional knowledge and training to better serve home buyers who desire that extra level of service,” said Kyle.
